Preventing AIDS and other STDS through Sexuality Education for Students with Intellectual Impairments

Compendium of teaching and learning activities geared to adapted curricula:

Secondary level: first and second cycles

This publication is not itself a guide to sexuality education; its aim, rather, is to see that teaching staff are at least minimally equipped to talk with these students about

AIDS and other STDs in a context of sexuality education.

This publication is for teachers of the first or second cycle of secondary school who work with students who have moderate to severe intellectual impairments, whether the learning environment is a regular class, resource class, special class or special school. However, it could also be useful to partners in various other sectors who work with the same clientele (e.g. staff of rehabilitation centres or CLSCs, professionals in the education network, significant persons who help the student).
